Our goal is to assist you in achieving solutions to your problems and experience healthy satisfying relationships that will add meaning and purpose your life. It has been shown that more favorable results are achieved in therapy when clients have a good understanding of the therapy process. Please read the following information very carefully so you may be able to make an informed consent to the counseling process. Please ask any questions you may have.

Therapist

My name is Mark Verkler and I founded Samaritan's Well in April 2009. I began my private practice in 1995 and also spent years of service in treatment centers and inpatient clinics. My practice includes but is not limited to treatment for marriage and family issues, personality disorders, depression, sexual integrity issues, affair recovery, and crisis and trauma management. Along with my wife, we have four wonderful children who are all in their 20s. We attend Upper Room Church in Dallas and are elders there.

Benefits and Risks of Therapy

Counseling is both an art and a science. Many individuals show great benefit from counseling, although results cannot be guaranteed. People come into therapy with various problems that cause internal distress and relational issues. Often, growth may not occur until you experience and confront uncomfortable issues that may make you feel sadness, sorrow, anxiety, or pain. Sometimes changes made during the therapy process affect other relationships such as family, friends, or in the workplace. The success of the therapeutic relationship between you and your therapist depends on the quality of the effort expended.

Client Involvement – much of the success in achieving goals and therapy rely on you to take responsibility for certain things. Keeping all scheduled appointments and being on time is very important and being open, honest and active in sessions is essential also. Additional effort in between sessions such as completing assignments and thinking through or being aware of thoughts and behaviors will also affect results. Please realize you are responsible for lifestyle choices or changes that may result from therapy.

Cancellations – Please call 24 hours or more in advance for cancellation of an appointment to avoid being charged for the session.

Insurances— Initial _____

My office does not bill insurance, nor are we contracted with any specific insurance panels. My staff will provide clients with fee ticket receipts containing procedures and diagnosis codes. These tickets may be submitted by client to insurance carriers for reimbursement should their insurance allow for out of network mental health benefits. Clients are responsible for all charges whether or not they are covered by insurance.
